Makeover Artists Are the Newest Celebrities

So you've finally made a New Year's resolution to get pampered the way your favorite movie star does. It might be a cutting-edge haircut (pardon the pun) or a commitment to a lifestyle program personally managed by a top nutritionist. Either way, here are a few of the hottest and most influential people in the good-looks business right now and what they can offer you. - Susan Redstone M

BRAD JOHNS

Brad Johns makes the world a brighter place with his relentlessly chic blonding, "chunking," and buttery highlighting of New York's most glamorous. As Artistic Director at the Avon Salon & Spa, located at New York's Trump Tower (725 5th Avenue), his clients fly in for their hair color fix (starting at $300) from as far away as London and Los Angeles. Of course, a celebrity colorist is not without a cache of clients from Hollywood: Brooke Shields, Bette Midler, Natasha Richardson, Johnny Depp, and others. Avon Salon & Spa, 725 5th Ave., New York; www.avonsalonandspa.com; (888) 577-2866.

SALLY HERSHBERGER

Sally Hershberger might just be the most influential hair cutter of our time. She's also one of the most expensive. At $600 a visit Hershberger will train her practiced eye over your tresses and re-set your age, body-image, and self-esteem. With her time spread out between hair styling on movie sets (her credits include "You've Got Mail," "Mission Impossible," "As Good As It Gets") and tending to top celebrities such as Michelle Pfeiffer, Tom Cruise, Meg Ryan, Sandra Bullock, Brad Pitt, and U.S. Senator Hillary Clinton. Sally Hershberger Downtown, 423 West 14th Street, 2nd Floor, New York, (212) 352-0777; 1489 S. Robertson Blvd., Suite 206, Beverly Hills, (310) 276-0107.

CORNELIA ZICU

Cornelia Zicu, a Romanian transplant, has conjured up great face results over the past 15 years. She has a new line of products and a new signature 20,000-square-foot spa located on the top two floors of the Ferragamo flagship building on New York's 5th Avenue. Her natural remedy approach with 14 treatment rooms, more than 90 specially trained aestheticians, massage therapists, a rooftop garden, a restaurant, and a Watsu pool, it's the chicest place to revive!
